Union-Song and Chorus. BY GEORGE P. MORRES.

This the word beyond all others, Makes us love our country most Makes us feel that we are brothers, And a heart-united host :

With hesanna let our banner From the house tops be unfurled, While the nation holds her station, With the mightlest of the world !

CHORES. Take your harps from silent willows, Shout the chorus of the free; States are all distinct as billows.

Union one-as is the sea !" from the land of groves that bore us He's a traiter who would swerve

By the flag now waving o'er us We the compact will preserve Those who gained it, and sustained it. Were unto each other true,

And the fable well is able To instruct us what to do! CROSES. Take your harps from silent willows,

Shout the chorus of the free! "States are all distinct as billows, Union one—as is the sea !"

VARIETY.

A man in the finest suit of clothes is often a shab hier fellow than another dressed in rags. We may owe it to our enemies to forgive; we owe it to ourselves not to forget.

Many a sweet-fashioned mouth has been disfigured and made hideous by the fiery tongue within it. A benevolent physician considers the poor his best patients, for God is the paymaster.

Always be quite as careful, in your business transactions, of taking credit as of giving it. He should be considered our best friend, who is the most ready to tell us of our errors in a friendly way. Proud men never have friends-neither in proserity, because they know nobody; nor in adversity, because then nobody knows them. The peevish, the niggard, the dissatisfied, the passionate, the suspicious, and those who live upon other's means-are forever unhappy. The most remarkable case on record is that of the Yankee soapman, who, in a violent storm at sea, saved himself from death by taking a cake of his own scap, and washing himself ashore.

Flattering and slanderous favorites are the bane of princes; by hearing their words, they advance their memies, and persecute their friends.-Scott. " Most evidently all claims to plenary power in the ministers or officers of the Christian church, are essentially and radically unscriptural and impious." Bad Luck is simply a man with his hands in his breeches' pockets and his pipe in his mouth, looking on to see how it will come out. Good Luck is a N. L. INGOLS. man of plack to meet difficulties, his sleeves rolled up, working to make it come right. "My hair is eighteen years older than my whiskers," said a lawyer, "and I cannot understand why my whiskers should turn gray first !"

"Because you have worked so much more with your jaws than your brains," replied Brown. At a fashionable city party, at which low necked fresses were a prominent feature, Miss B--- addressed her country cousin :

" Cousin Sam, Aid you ever see such a glorious "Never since I was wenned," said Sam, blushing.

DYSPEPSIA BREAD .- Take three quarts of unbolted wheat-meal; one quart of soft warm water; one gill of fresh yeast; one gill of molasses; and one teaspoonful of saleratus. This will make two loaves, and should remain in the oven, at least two hours. It will need from eight to twelve hours in which to rise. Mr. Theophilus Popp, of Poppville in Popp county, fancying himself to be very popular with his lady-leve, "popped the question" to her under the popular-tree, when she referred him to her poppy, who, when asked for his consent, laboring under the influence of ginger pop, popped him out of the door, to the tune of "Pop goes the weasel." CHEAP AND EFFECTUAL REMEDY FOR ROACHES .-

A friend furnishes the following simple recipe for the expulsion of these household nuisances : Take pulverized torax, (which can be had at any drug store,) and scatter it wherever any of them may be seen. It is perfectly innoxious to anything but them; but so excessive is their dislike to it that they will forthwith vacate the premises in disgust. Never be hasty in crediting disparaging reports of old friends. The man who is eager in circulating rumors which have a tendency to breed ill-feeling among neighbors, and work estrangement among those who are on terms of friendship, is not to be trusted. The tale-bearer has been an object of contempt from the earliest ages to the present time. The following is a verbatim copy of a letter recently received by a solicitor in the county of Water-

tord, Ireland, from his clerk, in another part of the same county: Sir: I am very happy to inform you that two murderous assaults were committed near this town yesterday evening, and that your attendance will be required here at the petty sessions to defend the parties

TAKE TIME TO SLEEP .- Those who think the most, who do the brain-work, require most sleep. The time saved from sleep is always destructive to mind, body and estate. Give yourself, your children, your serof sleep they will take, by compelling them to go to bel at some regular hour, and to arise in the morning the moment they awake; and within a fortnight, nature, with almost the regularity of the rising sun, will unloose the bonds of sleep the moment enough repose has been secured for the wants of the system. When this habit has become established, persons will go to sleep almost instantly upon going to bed, and that nervous restlessness, which is so annoying to some people, will be entirely avoided.

DORG. A TRAGEDY IN TWO AXE AND A BROOMSTICK.

The Court reporter of the Chicago Times thus renders a "romance in real life," upon which the curain fell in the Police Court the other day : Acr ONE .- Mrs. Kelly's house. Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Looney, Mrs. Conley, Constable and Dorg.

Const. Madam, look on this writ. The what is called in the vile Latin jargon of the law, Replevin, and doth order me to take Powersion of a certain dog, to wit— A dorg with a short tall and cars non est wethinks there stands the cur.

[He points to the darg.] Cur! did you say ? Sirrah: I'll teach thee—gentle friends this way! Let's in to council; something is to pay. | The ladies withd are and hold a council of war.

The Constable waits awhile and then whistles to the darg. Const. Then small edition of the canine breed, Thou grinning, bob-tailed, earless, blear-eyed wheip,

[The darg growls but stirs not.]

Const. Ha! and darest then to growl,
And show thy ugly teeth at me, who am
The lawful executioner of the law!
Get out!

[The ladies enter, armed with broomsticks, Mrs. R. Vile wrotch ! do thou take that,

And that, and that ! Conet. Madam, I conjure you,

By all your fondest hopes, here and hereafter, Hit not so hard. Mrs. L. Faith, is that soft enough?

[She crucks him with a shovel.] Mrs. C. And does that suit you better?

[She punches him with a poker.] How is that? Const. Madam, the useful law of self-defense Pertains as well to constables as men; Egwirtue therefore, of the mighty power

In this official arm, I knock you down.

[He knocks her down.] Mrs. K. O, murder, this doth my quietus give,

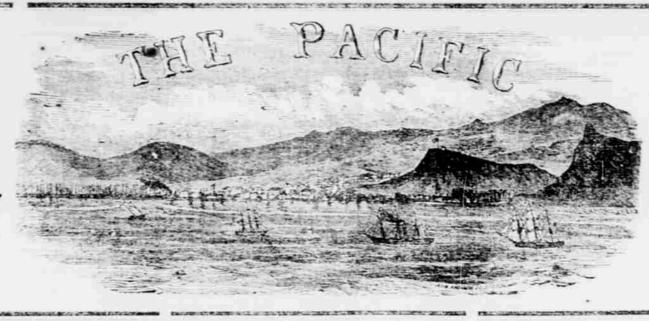

"This is the last of earth!"—no—" I still live!"

[She dies and comes to life again. The constable catches hold of the dorg by its continuation, which, being short, slips from his grasp. The dorg pitches in; ditto the ladies; then the constable flien. Act second transpires in the Police Court, where the Constable, Affeld, was brought upon the charge
